WHERE IT FAILS

While I am a great admirer of the Constitution and always rally to its support, when attacked by men in high or low station, I do not believe like a Kansas judge that it is a liquor cure.

A 19 year old lad was arrested, charged with intoxication and given the option of copying the document in long hand or going to jail for ten days. He chose the former course.

A few days later the boy's mother appeared with the work done as prescribed, and accounted for his nonappearance by saying he was serving a six months' sentence for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

PATHTIC SIGHT

While on the subject of booze it reminds me of the sight in the city of Richmond, on many occasions, of parents with children hardly able yet to hop, with a mug of beer in front of them. While I am no prude, or what is derisively called a "long hair," there is something that rebels within me at the picture. It has always been my belief that children should have every safeguard and protection thrown about them until they reach the age of discretion, and if then they are bent on pursuing the alcoholic road to bodily and moral destruction, it is useless to try and stop them.

From Lynn, Massachusetts, comes a story of a three year old girl who speaks three languages fluently and attributes her linguistic abilities to beer drinking. This tot boastfully claimed she could drink more than her father and mother and repeated the boast in French and German. On a recent trip to a brewery she drank three large steins of beer to the two her parents drank.

Personally I see nothing smart or clever in the incident, my only reaction being a feeling of concern.

Two Women Are Injured In Car Crashes

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday in two unusual automobile accidents reported to police.

Mrs. Orpha Fentrop, 5039 Solano avenue, Richmond, and her daughter, Ellen 14, were treated at the Richmond Cottage Hospital for cuts and bruises and were later sent home.

The two were injured in a four car collision late in the afternoon at Barrett and San Pablo avenues. According to police reports a truck driven by Axel Carlson, of 4616 Market street, Oakland, smashed into the rear of the Fentrop car, swerved and hit the rear end of a car owned by Henry W. Larson, of Oakland, and then crashed into a parked machine owned by Ross Lambert of 475 San Pablo avenue, Richmond. All cars were damaged and Carlson was cited to appear on charges of reckless driving.

Mrs. Helman A. Moore, 234 Fifth street, escaped uninjured when she crashed into the basement of a home owned by A. Garibotti at 312 Forty-sixth street yesterday afternoon. Both machine and house were damaged with the house apparently getting the worst of the argument.

According to Mrs. Moore's story to police a truck made a sudden turn in front of her as she was about to pass it and she swerved to avoid a collision.

Mrs. Moore's car went over the curb and 75 yards of more thru a vacant lot and finally ended its flight with its radiator knocking out a portion of the side of the house.

In another accident reported later in the evening car driven by Mrs. Georgia Kearney, of 2616 Esmond avenue and Louis M. Francis, of Placito, collided on Macdonald avenue near Nicholl Park. No one was injured.

THE WEATHER

Motorcycle Rider Killed On Dam Road

Henry Arras, 21, of San Francisco was instantly killed at 2 o'clock this morning when the motorcycle he was riding crashed through a fence at the Lighthouse Inn, decapitating him and scattering his brains in all directions.

Arras and a number of his friends had been in attendance at a dance at La Honda Bowl, given by the San Francisco Motorcycle Club, of which he was vice president. Four motorcycles left the Bowl at 1:45 A. M., with Arras in the lead. Where the dam road leads into San Pablo avenue there is a sharp turn and this Arras failed to negotiate. He apparently had tried to stop, as the machine's tracks showed that it left the cement road 132 feet from the point of the crash.

Companions of Arras, who were behind him on motorcycles, said that he was traveling at only a medium rate of speed.

The only damage to the motorcycle was the breaking of the headlight.

The unfortunate man's head, evidently struck the fence with terrific force and with fatal and ghastly results and tearing out a 20-foot section of the fence.

Deputy Coroner Drumney was summoned to the scene and the body was later removed to the Wilson & Kratzer Funeral Parlor, where an inquest and funeral arrangements are pending.

Deceased was employed as a clerk in the storeroom of the Dudley Perkins Company, a motorcycle agency in San Francisco. He resided with his parents on S. Van Ness avenue.

Greenway Home Is Robbed Of $3000 In Gems

El Cerrito police yesterday were investigating the daring daylight robbery of the J. A. Greenway home at 6337 Lagunitas street, Mira Vista.

The Greenway home was unoccupied during the robbery. According to Police Chief R. R. Cheek who investigated the crime the valuables were taken from the bedroom of Mrs. Greenway and the dressing room.

Diamonds, watches, and other jewelry valued at $3,000 were stolen by the burglar who entered the home some time between 9:30 and 11:30 A. M. The robbery was discovered by Mrs. Greenway on her return from a shopping tour.

The home had been thoroughly ransacked, with clothing and other accessories scattered about the place.

Two Inquests Are Held In Richmond

Two inquests were conducted here yesterday by Coroner C. L. Abbott.

In the death of Tarich Hoshi, 59, local Japanese florist, a verdict of death from nicotine poisoning, taken with suicidal intent, was returned.

The jury found that Lewis P. Bartsch, who died at the wheel of his car October 6, met death from a cerebral hemorrhage.

POLICE FIGHT RIOTERS

MONTEVIDEO, Ur., Oct. 12.—UP—Police tonight arrested a number of anti-Fascists who demonstrated against a group of Italian volunteers leaving for Italy on the S. S. Oceania.

LEAGUE IN ACTION TO HALT WAR

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 12.—UP—Italian Minister Luigi Vinetti-Gignoni was removed from the Italian delegation by armed soldiers today after denying Emperor Haile Selassie's orders that he leave Ethiopia immediately.

Count Vinetti-Gignoni, who hurried himself in the cellar of the legation after the legation staff and retainers had been placed aboard a special train for Djibouti, was taken to a residence provided by the Ethiopian government.

The residence, not far from the new palace of the Emperor, was circled by a military guard.

LEAGUE TAKES ACTION
GENEVA, Oct. 12.—UP—The League of Nations moved swiftly today towards a complete, worldwide boycott of Italian goods, aimed at strangling Italy's foreign trade and forcing her to submit to starvation of her funds.

Great Britain, obviously determined to compel Italy to halt her war of conquest in Africa in the shortest time, led in the move during a heated session of the "small" committee of 18 members, operating under the "large" committee of 50.

Captain Anthony Eden, rejected all proposals involving delay, insisted upon immediate League action to start a universal boycott of Italian exports.

CUT OFF LOANS
While the committee of 18 struck, the committee of 50 struck.

Two Youths Are Arrested Here, Held For Probe

Two youths arrested shortly before dawn yesterday morning were turned over to Sonoma county authorities yesterday afternoon for investigation on robbery charges.

Irving Cox, 22, of San Francisco and Edward Echolas, 21, of Sebastopol were found in a car parked off Garrard boulevard on the bay side of the tunnel by Officer E. M. Logan.

The youths were unable to account for their presence there and were taken to the police station. Questioned they allegedly admitted stealing a bicycle and gasoline from a place near Santa Rosa.

A .22 calibre rifle, parts of a bicycle, a piece of hose and empty cans were found in the car, which bore no registration certificate.

Changes Impend At Clyde School

Release of both students and teachers has reduced considerably the personnel of the Clyde Training Corps Camp at Clyde, future of which it was said today, rests upon a possible program to be undertaken by the National Youth Administration and the WPA. Definite determination upon continuation or closing of the school is expected by November 1.

Fifty youths formerly in the school are now employed by WPA at Mare Island and 12 are at Benicia Arsenal.

A revised program under consideration would permit acceptance at the school of only California boys.

The Government has a three year lease on the Clyde Hotel and adjoining premises.

Attorney Clare Horner and Mrs. Horner were spectators at the Stanford-U. C. L. A. memorable football contest yesterday.

WITH THE ETHIOPIAN FORCES, HARAR, Oct. 12.—UP—Italian invaders moved up the valley of the Webbe Shibli river in northern Ethiopia today, bombing villages and isolating Ethiopian outposts in preparation for the first great battle on the border front.

The Ethiopians are massing to meet them. A force of 10,000 equipped warriors will meet 60,000 well-drilled and equipped Italian and native troops.

PIERCE BATTLE

BEARS WIN GAME FROM OREGON 11

Upsets and thrills marked Saturday's football games on the Pacific Coast.

Perhaps the biggest surprise and upset of the season was the victory of the University of California at Los Angeles over Stanford. The score was 26 in favor of the Bruins.

Coach Bill Spalding's men from Southern California played in a spirited football from start to finish to hang up the first defeat in the conference season against the Big Red machine.

THE UPSET
Stanford drew first blood halfway through the initial period when Frank Alimiza intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards to the Bruins' 25-yard line. On the next play Grayson cut through left tackle and ran to the 19 yard line. He went over on the next play. Monk Moscrip failed to convert.

Within three minutes the Bruins came back in the ball game to even the count, and then convert the touchdown to take the lead. Opening their drive when Chesire recovered a fumble by Hamilton on the Stanford 40 yard mark, C. L. A. drove down the field without a stop.

Chesire cut loose through the Bruins' left guard for a 28 yard gain, which, together with a five yard off-side penalty, put the visitors seven yards from the goal line. Pullback Key pounded left tackle for five yards, and then let right guard for two more and the score.

CALIFORNIA WINS
California clocked out a 6-9 victory over University of Oregon in a game played on a muddy field in the midst of showers. Over 2,000 fans attended the game.

Thomas Rice, Galveston, shipping executive, said that "We can't deal with the I. L. A. any longer."

"We have gone as far as we can," he said. "Independent shoremen will be put to work Monday."

J. Ross Dunn, speaking for Houston shippers, did not set a definite time for resumption of commerce through the port here, but said, "We are going to work pretty soon."

Meanwhile, 500 members of the I. L. A. met in a closed session to discuss possible retaliatory measures.

24 Are Held In Rebel Plot By Havana Police

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 12.—UP—Forteen persons were rounded up tonight in what police said was the smashing of a revolutionary plot for next month.

Additional arrests were expected.

Military authorities were said to have discovered "compromising documents" detailing the alleged revolt by means of an expedition from Mexico in November.

Two of those arrested are former naval lieutenants, Octavio Martine, and Pedro Valle.

Four Convicts In Break At East Prison; Wound Leader

MENARD, Ill., Oct. 12.—UP—Four de-prive convicts, including Basil (The Owl) Baughart, armed themselves with tailor's cut saws today and made a daring break for liberty from the Southern State Illinois penitentiary at Chester.

They crashed through two iron gates in a seven foot commandeer truck and led 100 guards in a wild chase which lasted three hours before Baughart was shot down and two of his confederates were captured unhurt.

FOUR AT LARGE
The fourth was at large late today.

Baughart, serving a 99 year term on conviction of participating in the John (Jack) Barberi murder kidnaping, was a member of the notorious River Tumbly gang.

Those Baughart chose to aid him were:

WORKED IN SHOP
The four had worked side by side in the prison tailor shop. Every day they looked out into the prison yard and saw the big prison supply trucks, bearing through the gates and up to the prison wardens.

Overconfidence The Cause Of Indians' Defeat

(By CLARE D. HORNER)

Overconfidence plus just a little too strong Bruin line cost Stanford a victory yesterday. Added to that it might be fairly said that the inability of pass receivers to hang on to the ball when it was tossed into their hands, added to the things that brought Stanford its defeat.

U. C. L. A. was a line. They played Stanford to a standstill during the greater part of the game and at times actually looked stronger than the Stanford line.

Stanford was overconfident. One could feel it in the air. The team left the field at mid-time with the score 7 to 6 against them and with the air that it really didn't matter; that they would come back in the next half and get a couple of touchdowns. They tried valiantly, but it was a case of too much Bruin defense.

Bill Spalding's team is not as strong as Stanford. True his Mr. Chesire is a ball packer, good enough for any man's team. He showed it, when in the first quarter, the Bruins' chance came and he proceeded to go places with the ball to the tune of a sweet and well earned touchdown.

The famous Stanford backs showed well at times, but seemed to feel that their speed alone would win. It didn't and it won't against any good team. More team play is required and more willingness of the signal caller to open up when around the other fellow's thirty-yard line. Stanford had two beautiful chances to score in the last half, but stuck to the plan of hitting the line, and in each case was forced to kick on the last down.

It cannot be denied that the big Red machine still is a ball club and from what they showed, they can't do it with the style of play used against the Bruins.

WELCOME IS GIVEN BOYS BY RICHMOND

Perhaps one of the most enthusiastic gatherings in the City of Richmond has ever witnessed was the Northern California Camporal for Grade A patrols of Boy Scouts which opened at Nicholl Park yesterday.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 Scouts from all sections of the northern part of the State—from Fresno to the Oregon line—marched into the park starting at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

They came by train, automobiles, buses, trucks and even bicycles. Every Scout was equipped with a staff painted in the colors of his troop. On his back each Scout carried his pack, containing all necessary equipment for the over-night camp.

TROOPS REGISTER
After each troop had registered with Scout officials, they were assigned to their tent areas in the rear of the park. Then a busy scene ensued. Packs were removed and opened, tents were set up, bedding rolls were spread and the Scouts set up home-made food coolers, reflector ovens and cooking equipment. Fire holes were dug and pot holders were installed.

Row upon row of shelter halves blossomed like grotesque flowers in the fields in the rear of the park. A large majority of these tents was made by the boys from sheeting material water-proofed and dyed a deep green or olive drab.

PROGRAM IS HELD
After the tents had been set up, the boys cooked their lunch, using food they had carried in their packs.

Want New Trial Of Injury Suit

MARTINEZ, Oct. 12.—On behalf of defendants, attorneys today filed notice of intention to move for a new trial in the $61,700 automobile injury damage suit filed by Gertrude F. Augustine of Martinez, through her guardian, Mary Augustine, against A. R. Sear Company and James Reed, an employee.

On September 27, a jury gave judgment of $35,000 in favor of the plaintiff.

Attorneys James F. Hoey, Kirk La Shelle and the firm of Cooley, Crowley & Supple of San Francisco filed the notice of intention to move for a new trial. Attorneys George Carmody, Jesse Nichols, T. M. Carlson and Robert Collins, represent the plaintiff.

The suit charged that Gertrude Augustine, 25, suffered injuries in an accident on Alhambra avenue, Martinez, April 20, 1935, which rendered her mentally incompetent.

She was injured when an automobile in which she was riding was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Reed. The plaintiffs had charged Reed with responsibility for the crash.

CALIFORNIA IN VICTORY OVER OREGON ELEVEN

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 12.—UP

University of California's mud-smudged Golden Bears slashed through the mire today to defeat University of Oregon 6 to 0.

Each team played cautiously, waiting for the breaks. California capitalized on its opportunity and Oregon did not.

Bill Hoover, veteran left half-back who was one of California's brightest stars today, gave his team the chance to score in the third period when he slipped thru right tackle on a fake reverse and ran 44 yards to the Oregon nine-yard line, where Bud Goodin, Oregon safety, hauled him down with a spectacular tackle.

It looked as though the Bears had fumbled this opportunity, however when they lost the ball on Oregon's one-foot line after Ken Cotton, sophomore fullback, failed to make two needed yards on fourth down. The quarter ended there.

Big Stan Riordan, Webfoot end who punted sensationally throughout the game, stood under his own goal posts for the punt. Three mud-caked California linemen smashed through simultaneously and partially blocked the kick, and Dave Anderson, substitute California left guard, fell on the ball on Oregon's three-yard line.

Ken Cotton went over center for the touchdown in two plays. Budd Jones, Oregon end, blocked Blower's try for conversion.

California made its first determined thrust midway of the third quarter when John Howard, substitute sophomore fullback, tossed a 30 yard pass to Sam Chapman, another sophomore who went in at halfback. Chapman ran 19 yards to the Oregon 23.

John Reischman, Oregon quarterback, threw Blower for an eight-yard loss but Blower passed to Chapman, advancing the ball to the 20.

Blower's next toss was intercepted by Frank Michke, Oregon fullback, ending the threat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—UP

Marshall's Field's first boy colt, Tingagel, today battled from the post, fought off challengers gloriously down the stretch in record time to win the 45th running of the $90,000 Belmont Stakes, world's richest race for two-year-olds.

Masterfully ridden by Silvio Cozzani, little Bronx Italian, Tingagel, proved himself the greatest of the world's current straightaway juvenile runners by out-speeding and out-gaining 17 other starters, while more than 20,000 fans in the huge Belmont Park stands roared their acclaim across the infield. It was the largest crowd of the metropolitan racing season.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" — E. Z. Pickin Arrives

Radical Design

WILLIAM J. WATERHOUSE, noted airplane engineer, has announced that he has built and successfully put a two cycle gasoline engine through rigid tests. He claims to have overcome difficulties encountered by other "alchemists" of aviation and that the engine is designed to deliver one working impulse per cylinder per revolution. The engine, it is claimed, nearly doubles the horsepower output and is only half the weight of an ordinary four-cycle motor.

YOUR HEALTH

Insomnia Is Often Caused by Eating of Heavy Meal Before Going to Bed

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

THE eating of a heavy meal at night is the frequent cause of so much sleeplessness. Evening banquets or social entertainments that end with cake, ice cream, lemonade, iced tea, or beer and cocktails keep a vast number from obtaining a quiet sleep. They may sleep in a way, but it is not restful when we have wild dreams.

A dream that seems hours long, may only occupy a few seconds of actual time, but the real wear and tear on the brain and nervous system is immense. A loaded stomach and bowel are not conducive to restful sleep. Constipation causes restlessness and nervousness. Headaches, tooth aches, earache and nasal obstruction are likely to become more prominent after the excitement of the day is over and you can't see the doctor or dentist at that time of night. If you wait till daylight to call them, both you and they will suffer from lack of sleep.

Our senses do some queer things. The ordinary noises and racket of a city do not usually disturb the city dweller, but if he goes to the country he may find it difficult to sleep for a while. The silence is so loud that it wakes him up. The fire wagons pass my house several times during a night and no one hears them. Let a young man stop close to the house and the absence of the screech wakes every one.

Works Both Ways

Our ear drums become accustomed to the ordinary noise and are not disturbed, but the cessation of it gets up a different sensation and wakes us up.

Noises inside the house, such as creaking of floors, creaking of a stair step, talking by those that are up late, are disturbing to the sleeper. He is trying to sleep. Peculiar noises, something unusual or shrill, may wake us.

Some persons cannot bear any continuous sound such as the ticking of a clock. If the clock in a bedroom stops, it wakes me. "Ticking" is extremely annoying to some people. A slow quiet, even ticking may be soothing, but the loud raucous, strident, clucking snore a too much for most of us. I have known people who snored so loud that they woke themselves up. These people should be compelled to sleep in a sound-proof room for the protection of the family.

Exhaustion of any kind may prevent sleep. Great emotion, whether pleasant or unpleasant, will keep us awake. Worry is the chief cause of sleeplessness. Tomorrow's work cannot be done while we are in bed. It can't be successfully planned. Then we worry for fear we will not sleep, and we do not sleep.

Many people stay up late at night hoping to get tired that they will sleep. It is no use. The mind becomes so tensed with the dread of sleeplessness that it cannot get quiet enough to sleep. Wondering whether you will sleep, going over the doings of the day, worrying about your failures and disappointments, reviewing what you did and said and what others did and said during the day is a very successful way of driving away sleep.

Mind Must Be at Rest

Forgetting the past and ignoring the future promotes sleep. The mind must be at rest and to reach that stage we must cease to think. Exerting your will power by saying to yourself, "I will sleep," is very much like counting sheep—it keeps the brain active and sleep does not come.

Physical comfort is an important factor. A well ventilated room, a dry warm bed, a comfortable mattress and bedclothing not too heavy nor too light, are necessary. Use a hot water bottle if needed to provide warmth.

Sometimes a hot drink before retiring draws blood to the abdomen and relieves the brain. A great physician has said, "No one can go to sleep by effort of will, the sense of this inability is the main cause of all insomnia."

All conscious effort to achieve sleep prevents sleep. Go to bed to sleep, close the door of your mind as well as the door of your room, lie limp and heavy, relax in body and brain, cease worrying about sleeping. Resting quietly will relax your body. Quit listening for noises and just rest. The cure of sleeplessness is sleep, and not some sleeping drug.

Short Cuts

For a child's bedroom, try curtains of theatrical gauze. This material is sturdy, attractive and launders beautifully.

Scald the coffee pot before making the coffee. It not only makes it taste better, but it must be free of stale coffee for a good cup of coffee. And always use fresh water.

Profiles For Today

Klemperer Colorful as Conductor

By TALBOT LAKE

BASEBALL, big business, politics and preaching all have their colorful figures, but so has music. In this field one of the most interesting is Otto Klemperer, formerly of Germany, but now pretty much of a wanderer. Mr. Klemperer is a conductor who appears with several of the American orchestras, but principally with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

The former German is interesting for several things. The first is his appearance. He stands six feet six inches in his socks, and when he gets on the raised platform before his players he looks about eight feet. When his arms begin to move you feel he is lifting the whole concert hall. He has jet black, curly hair and wears glasses. He could not be put in the handsome class, but there is a certain distinguished appearance about him. Despite his overpowering personality, it does not intrude on the listener's pleasure for his artistic stature is great also.

Klemperer, although sometimes making excursions into the realm of modern music, is a stickler for sound musicianship and he prefers the standard classics. He is a great favorite in New York.

For a more objective point of view the musician is interesting because he was kicked out of Germany by the Hitler regime's war on Jews. At the time it happened Klemperer was at the peak of his career. In 1933 he was dismissed as director of the Prussian State Opera. A warrant for his arrest was produced and all his property was confiscated. Any other man might have gone insane at such treatment, but not Klemperer; he just kept on with his music.

Transferring most of his activities to this side of the water, Klemperer has always been an old master—sometimes green, sometimes brown—just so long as it is old.

Guide to Charm

Brushes Help In Preparing For a Party

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IF YOU wish to be as attractive as possible in your new backless evening gown your skin must be as smooth and clear on your body as it is on your carefully tended face. The simplest way to keep your skin glowing and lovely is by scrubbing nightly with soap and warm water and a fairly stiff bath brush.

Brushes again! The brush prevents the gooseflesh appearance that results from poor circulation and accumulations of dead skin cells. It stimulates the pores to normal action and prevents the formation of blemishes. There are bath brushes of all kinds and sizes—some with handles that are detachable for convenience after you have given your back its scouring.

And here's another tip! If you are pleasantly plump you will find the bath brush a handy tool for massaging the hard-to-reach spots down your spine and under your shoulder blades where fatty tissue has a way of accumulating. Of course, you will have to diet and exercise, too!

How's your skin lately? Toothbrushes? Many girls have the habit of getting one and using it for months until the bristles are so long that they are of little value for cleansing your teeth or exercising your gums. You should have a new toothbrush at a time and use them interchangeably so that one will always be fresh and the bristles thoroughly dry.

After using your toothbrush wash it and let it soak a few minutes in an antiseptic solution, then shake off as much water as you can and hang it up to dry thoroughly. It is damp, soggy bristles that shorten the life of even the most expensive toothbrush.

Another of the new beauty brushes is a shampoo brush that is especially recommended for those troubled with dandruff—although it is so convenient and pleasant to use that all of you will want it. It is round and fitted with a little knob at the top for you to hold on to. Use it before the shampoo to loosen any particles of dead skin or dandruff, the scalp and during the shampoo to work the soapy lather into your scalp. After the shampoo rinse the brush thoroughly and hang it down to drain and dry thoroughly.

Hair brushes, if they are to do their work efficiently, should be washed every day or two. To cleanse them remove any hair from the bristles with the coarse teeth of your comb, then swish them up and down and from side to side in lukewarm soap suds. Do not add ammonia to the water, as this tends to soften the bristles.

Rinse in clear water, then tap the brush gently, bristles down on a soft towel to remove excess water. Dry the back and handle, then stand the brush upright in a milk bottle, or lay bristles down before an open window so the sun and fresh air can dry it quickly and thoroughly.

Your brush family is not complete until you have a good clothes brush, a narrower, softer brush for hats and at least two brushes for keeping your shoes neat and well-cared for.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I wonder if you will put me straight on this question. I have read in your column and in others that creams should never be used when the skin is affected with acne. I have had a couple of face treatments a year and although I have tried many things, I find an acne cream is the only thing that will bring the eruptions to a head and clear them up temporarily. Should I continue using this cream or is it delaying the permanent cure?"—Helen H."

Acne creams and ointments are usually highly antiseptic preparations, often made with a non-oily base, although they may spread like a cream. These, when used according to directions, are beneficial. Usually a firm, antiseptic lotion is used in connection with the cream. Avoid cleansing and nourishing creams.

QUESTION: "I am seventeen—or I will be in a couple of weeks—and my aunt has promised me a bottle of really good perfume for my high school parties. Can you tell me what kind I should choose?"—Joey."

First, I would suggest that you go to the shops and sniff and sniff. Select the one you think you would like best and have the salesgirl put a drop of each on your wrist and sniff some more when it has dried. Not all perfumes behave the same on all skins. If you still like it you might get a tiny bottle and use it after you get home. See how your friends react to it. Use it sparingly always.

Changeable Taffeta Silks Revived for Evening Wear

By IRENE VAIL

New York—An interesting revival has to do with changeable taffeta, one of the best of all silks for evening dresses with a period tendency. Naturally, one would not drape changeable taffeta in any of the neo-classic types, but nothing could be better than the gored dress, with perhaps a peplum and a ruche, all good this season.

Speaking of ruches, there is a lovely velvet one, edged with rhinestones, to be worn close around the throat. This is a 17th Century idea women have adapted for evening.

In listing the newer trimmings I mentioned fringe? One of the best thoughts of the season is to use fringe on daytime dresses. Obviously fringe trimmings must be well controlled, the short so-called bob-fringes are best, and smartest when sparingly applied.

Beaded dresses, too, have been revived, but in such completely new guise that "revived" is hardly the word to use in connection with them. For instance, beaded wool dresses are something new, especially when the beads are of wood. They are not always of wood, in fact one of the successful imports, a Mainbocher, had scintillating black beads in spaced clusters all over a black woolen dress. The American version beads the bodice only.

Beaded yokes and trimmings are preferred to all-over beaded effects, but there's not much doubt about the all-over variety eventually overtaking us.

Matelasse materials, whether in silk or wool, are great favorites again, and as you must have noticed, winter coats are nearly always made of one of the large matelasse families. There are heavy, coarse crepes in silk and wool mixtures that are used for gowns, for formal purposes, and are elegant looking in either black, always smart, or the new triumphant colors, as they have been aptly named.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "One of the girls in my office is going out of the state for her vacation. She will visit in a town where I have cousins. Would it be in order to ask her to look them up? Shall I give her a letter of introduction?"—K. L."

ANSWER: Apparently, the girl referred to is not an intimate friend. In such a case it would be better to forget the matter, unless you merely wish to mention that you have cousins living in that town. For if you wish this girl to look up your cousins, it calls for a letter of introduction. A letter of introduction, on the other hand, is not lightly handed out. It places a definite responsibility upon the person to whom it is addressed. It means also, that you are willing to obligate yourself for any courtesies which may be extended to the bearer of the letter of introduction. Only when you wish two intimate friends to make each other's acquaintance is such a letter in order.

QUESTION: "Is 'Pardon me' the polite thing to say when apologizing?"—Irma M."

ANSWER: In asking someone's pardon the important thing is to try to sound genuinely sorry. Avoid such contractions as "Pardon me," "Excuse me, please," "Sorry," therefore. They are unsatisfactory. Say, rather, "I beg your pardon," or "Will you excuse me, please?" "I am so sorry." In such cases you must take the trouble to be polite if you really are concerned.

Dishes for Today

Baked Meat Combinations Hit the Spot

By JUDITH WILSON

WHEN autumn leaves are falling and the wind whistles about the eaves, a hot baked dish is exactly right for luncheon or supper. Something good in the pot—or casserole, baking dish or ramekin—makes it possible for you to have a one-piece meal which saves dish washing and enables the thrifty to use leftovers with skill and imagination.

Keep your casserole dish moist and savory. If the contents look dry add a little meat stock or bacon fat during the baking. Rice and dried beans (cooked) are excellent binders for bits of savory meat and vegetables and make a little into a lot.

Sausage Surprise

Sausage Surprise
Remove the seeds from 1 green pepper, chop and parboil 2 minutes in salted water. Peel and chop 1 onion and add it with the pepper to 3 cups cold boiled rice. Mix thoroughly and put a layer in a baking dish. Add a layer of tiny sausages which have been steamed until partly done, then another of rice. Pour 1 cup milk or tomato juice over the rice and dot liberally with butter. Cover and bake in a moderate oven 1 1/2 hour, then uncover and bake 1/2 hour longer.

Pork and Lima Casserole
Soak 1 cup dried lima beans overnight. Pour off the water, add 4 cups fresh water and 1 teaspoon salt, cook slowly until tender. Rub 6 pork chops with flour that has been seasoned with salt, pepper and powdered thyme and sear in hot fat. Use a large baking dish and put in alternate layers of cooked lima beans and sliced onions (2 large). Place the pork chops on top and pour over 3/4 cup apple cider. Cover and bake slowly about an hour.

Ham-Apple Pot
You will need 1 cup cooked ham, sliced thin, 2 cups thinly sliced apples and 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs. Arrange in alternate layers in a greased baking dish. Mix together 1 cup water, 1 cup dark corn syrup, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter and salt, pepper and mustard to taste. Bring to a boil in a saucepan and pour over the mixture in the baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven about 45 minutes.

Mushroom-Kidneys
Place lamb kidneys and a generous amount of butter in a skillet. Simmer slowly for 20 minutes. Remove the stems from large mushrooms, leaving the caps whole. Chop the stems fine and saute with the caps in the pan with the kidneys. For each serving have 3-inch round of crisp buttered toast. If the mushrooms are very large, place a cap in the center of each toast round with a kidney on top of this. If they are smaller, use four mushroom caps on the toast with kidney in the center. Make a sauce with 4 tablespoons melted butter, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and the chopped mushroom stems. Four over the individual servings. Serve very hot. This makes an attractive luncheon or supper entree.

Sautéed Corn and Pepper
Dice 4 slices bacon and saute until light brown in a skillet. Add 1 1/2 cups cooked or canned whole kernel corn, and 1 green pepper finely chopped and saute carefully until thoroughly hot and lightly browned. Serve on triangles of buttered toast.

MODERN WOMEN

Sage of Fifty Asks "Why Shouldn't Young Man Marry for Money?"

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

HERE is a story in which I play the part first of listener-in and then of narrator.

A man of fifty odd with considerable success among women ought to know whereof he speaks. After listening to him voice his experiences and the conclusions he has arrived at because of them, I am going to pass a few of them along for the benefit of the men who read this column, and not altogether without hope that women may get something from it, too.

You and Your Child

Child Makes Scene Innocently

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

FOUR-YEAR-OLD LUCY knelt on the trolley bench between her mother and father and looked out. Before long they arrived at a busy highway and the trolley car stopped to wait for the traffic light. Suddenly the child became wildly excited. She bounced up and down. She waved her arms. She shouted at the top of her lungs. "Sam! There's Sam! Mother's face reddened."

"Please, Lucy, don't shout." Lucy, however, was deaf to her mother's entreaty. "Call him, dad! He can't hear me." Dad saw Sam disappear around the corner. "He's gone," he said. But just then, the trolley car moved forward. As it started across the highway, Lucy could see around the corner, and of course she saw Sam again. "There he is," she shouted excitedly and nearly bounced out of the window. "Sam!" At last Sam heard, turned and saw the little girl and waved to her.

Lucy and her daddy waved back, but mother did not even bother to look at Sam. Not that she does not like Sam. She thinks that Sam is a very nice fellow, in fact. But she was embarrassed. She is the type of person who hates a scene or excitement, no matter what prompts it. She herself is self-contained and thinks that other people should try to be that way, too.

When Lucy turned to her mother, therefore, and announced, "I saw Sam, mother," the answer was an abrupt, "You mustn't shout." "Yes, I did, mom. I saw Sam. Didn't I, daddy?" By now the passengers were either snickering or grinning. Mother grabbed the child and sat her down hard. "I don't want to hear about it any more," she ordered. Lucy looked puzzled and frightened.

Lucy's outburst of exuberance offended no one but her mother who was the last one who should have allowed herself to become so affected by it. She should have had the insight to appreciate that it was innocent, natural, harmless, and hence altogether amusing.

Not Always Good Sport

It's not the so-called "good sport" who is a good sport during adversity—at least not in this man's opinion. He claims that it is the gently reared girl who is most self-effacing and who can "take it" without recriminations and without threats or taunts.

This man applies the beggar-on-horseback theory to marriage with a girl who has nothing and who has married because she preferred it to work. When such a girl finds she has made a bad bargain she's sore, and says so in no gentle terms. What's more, she's headed for Reno with dreams of alimony in mind.

Unfortunately, according to my theorist, young men are attracted more by outward charm than inward grace. "The like the stimulation of exciting women. However, no one can stand perpetual excitement. Young men without the benefit of experience do not know how easy it is for them to marry girls with both background and bank books.

May Look Up

"They think they must seek a wife of their own stratum of society, while, as a matter of fact, fathers of marriageable daughters welcome with open arms and stand willing to help young men astute enough to look up and not down when seeking a wife."

"But you wouldn't advise a young man to marry for money, would you?" I asked. "I'm not certain," he answered without hesitation. "It's just as easy to marry a rich girl as a poor one—and a darn sight pleasanter. Rich or well-to-do fathers do not frown on honest young men willing to work. They frown on penniless young men who want to marry a rich girl in order to work. You must admit there is a distinction."

As a slight concession to my feelings, my friend said it clear that he was merely discussing the case of a young man who was heart whole and fancy free. Where love had already become involved in the young man's life, his advice, he assured me, would be different. But I wonder!

Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin cannot reply individually to every correspondent. Names will not be published. Address her care of this paper.

Remarkable Coincidence

On August 27 a member of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Clearing House Association brought in checks on other banks amounting to $18,822.64 and received from other banks checks on it totaling exactly the same amount. It has been reported to the American Bankers Association, with a request for information as to similar coincidences.

The association staff did some investigating but a search failed to reveal a similar example of an exact balance of clearings. However it was found that the New York Clearing House has a record of one bank which on September 22, 1862, came within one cent of a balance. Also on December 16, 1873, a bank brought in checks totaling $1,000.00 and received checks aggregating $999.99, leaving a debit balance of a dime.

LEAGUE IN ACTION TO HALT WAR

gled with the problem of a trade boycott, a sub-committee worked on the question of cutting off loans and credit, both governmental and private.

There was an apparent division of opinion between Britain and France on the trade problems.

ACTION DEMANDED
Robert Coulondre, French expert, urged that cutting off exports to Italy should be undertaken before her exports abroad are halted, but Eden insisted on prompt action to strangle Italian trade.

Frequently intervening in the historical debate, the brilliant young English statesman won the support of a large majority of the delegates. He opposed Coulondre's suggestion that the proposed boycott be submitted to a subcommittee for further study and insisted that it should be submitted to the main sanction committee of 50 for immediate action. Belgium, Sweden, South Africa and the Netherlands warmly supported Eden. When Nicholas Titulescu of Roumania urged that compensation should be found for nations which would suffer losses through cutting off of their exports to Italy, C. T. T. Water of South Africa said such compensation is unnecessary because of the increase in world security if the war is checked would more than compensate nations for present losses in trade. A. C. D. De Graffe of The Netherlands agreed with him, and the Swedish and Belgian delegates voiced their approval.

Te Water cautiously suggested that League members might envisage the rupture of diplomatic relations with Italy.

Giuseppe Motta of Switzerland eloquently begged the committee to consider the exceptional position of Switzerland, which has 160,000 persons of Italian blood in the Ticino region, 35,000 of them actually Italians.

It would be absolutely impossible for Switzerland to cease buying all Italian goods, he said. Joaquim de Vasconcellos of Portugal, providing, assured him that the committee would try to make allowances for Switzerland.

The Italian force of 60,000 troops, equipped with planes, tanks and the latest developments of mechanized warfare, is proceeding along the Fafan and Webbe Shil valleys, with this important city of Harar as its objective.

NEW DRIVE

If Harar can be taken, the invading force from Italian Somaliland, under General Rodolfo Graziani, apparently intends to make a drive on Dire Dawa and cut the Addis Ababa-Ethiopia railroad.

A rupture of the French-owned railroad at Dire Dawa would, in effect mean the conquering of Ethiopia—at least from an economic standpoint—as it affords the only outlet from Addis Ababa. Such a move also would afford an opportunity for effecting a junction of Italy's northern Tizre armies and those of General Graziani on the south.

BATTLE NEAR

I have just returned from Jijiga, 40 miles to the south, where I witnessed the grim mobilization of 100,000 savage defenders under the veteran Nasibu, a kinky-haired chieftain, who is ready to ride into battle at the head of his men.

Reports to Nasibu of the destruction of villages to the south by low-flying Italian bombing planes, the frenzied flight of refugees into Jijiga and their harrowing stories of a heavy toll of life among the natives, convinced me of the imminence of the great battle.

Sweating, couriers, brought word that the invaders are raining bombs on the Webbe-Shil valley.

CHAMPION GUZZLER

Some people are valiant in their capacity for liquor and numbered among these nit-wits is a Lubique truck driver who has astonished veteran guzzlers with the amount of the fluid he can consume.

This champion of world calder in his line, is convinced he is the best beer drinker in the State of Iowa and in modest bibbling moments he will include the nation or the earth.

The feat that gave him this dubious preeminence was imbibing a 64-ounce flagon of beer in 47 seconds during a contest at a bar-tenders' picnic, fairly bowling the spectators off their seats. Other contestants gazed, staggered and fell by the wayside with their mugs still full.

No beast would thus degrade himself and I am sure that Iowa does not relish the notoriety that is thus brought upon it.

Ordinarily the men who drink are not megaphoning it as an accomplishment, but are secretly ashamed of the vice. From the time Noah got drunk on wine and down through the ages it has been a curse. There is no defense for alcohol, except the desire to cater to our baser appetites and then it is to be exalted, then in truth, and in fact we are degenerating at a rapid rate and in a shameful manner. Anyway let us possess the decency not to advertise our weakness.

NOT THE SOLUTION

As this seems to be a liquor column this morning, it would not be complete without mentioning the advice given the liquor dealers of New York by the commissioner of finance and taxation, that: "You may not be aware of it, but there is a real probability that a strong prohibition movement may be with us again in a few years if the abuses of the liquor industry continue," and the financial backing of an organization by John D. Rockefeller called "The Council for Moderation."

The council, we are told, will take no political or legislative action. It will not attempt to reform drunkards. It will not prosecute drunken motorists. It will not set up standards of moderation or tell anyone how much he should drink. But it proposes to spend $100,000 a year in attempting to persuade United States citizens of both sexes to learn how to drink like ladies and gentlemen.

Perhaps Mr. Rockefeller has the right idea but I seriously doubt it. An alcohol-inflamed brain is incapable of exercising moderation of any kind. If it was possible for a human being to do so it would be a simple matter to practically eradicate the evils of drink. One might as well tell a hurricane to moderate its intensity or earthquakes not to shake as counsel moderation in the use of drink. It just cannot be done.

There must be some other solution for this vexatious problem, but what it is, yet has not been advanced by either prohibitionists or moderationists.

HAD SIGNALS

The four, apparently moving by prearranged signals, left the tailor shop this morning carrying the long Edward Bartley 14 brought into the prison loaded with dynamite. James Carico, guard detailed to the unloading operations, was overpowered and disarmed. Bartley was thrown into the rear of the truck by Franklin and Spencer who climbed in after him.

Banghart slipped behind the wheel with Stone at his side and the desperados roared toward the prison gates like a battering ram. The iron gates burst open before the impact of the speeding machine.
